Dean's List

Six of the state's seven law school deans met in Raleigh last week for a question-and-answer session with Hulett "Bucky" Askew. Askew is the American Bar Association's consultant on legal education and an administrator of the ABA section which accredits law schools. Four North Carolina law schools will have accreditation or evaluation visits in the next 12 months. The meeting was held at Smith Moore's Raleigh office. Pictured (l-r), John Boger, UNC-CH; Raymond Pierce, NCCU; Melissa Essary, Campbell; Askew; Kate Bartlett, Duke; Gene Clark, Charlotte Law School, and Sidney S. Eagles Jr., who serves as the ABA House of Delegates member representing the ABA Section of Legal Education and Admissions to the Bar. Not pictured are Wake Forest Law School Dean Robert K. Walsh, who was unable to attend, and Elon University Law Dean Leary Davis, who left early for another meeting.
